ROSENAU BROS.,

KINGS OF LOW PRICES.

PROPRIETORS BEE HIVE

YESTERDAY.
All laid aside their shawls and wraps
And donned their spring attire,
For 'twas the first in many moons
You'd warm without a fire.

Chenoweth's Cream Lotion heats chaps and keeps the skin soft.

Rev. and Mrs. T. Evans of Dover have recovered from their serious illness.

Miss Effie Weaver of the county has about recovered from an attack of erysipelas.

Some of the colored people of Dover are preparing for a well-attended March 11th.

James T. Talbott died at his home near Millburg Friday last in the 71st year of his age.

Mrs. Lucy Wilson, niece of Mr. Thomas M. Porter of Covington, died last week at Kansas City.

James R. Huff of Covington is again a candidate for Railroad Commissioner from this District.

Uncle Peter Edgington, the great settler, has been quite ill at his home on Bank street, but is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Weaver are entertaining a daughter at their home near Morehead.

Mr. Weaver was formerly a resident of the county.

The Courier went up yesterday for Huntington and will be down this morning to leave on time for Cincinnati, and will be in the trade regularly tomorrow.

The Rev. J. A. Vaughn, Pastor of the M. E. Church, South, will preach the opening sermon at the Missionary Convention of the District, which convenes at Millburg tomorrow night.

The members of Limestone Lodge, K. of P., yesterday attended the M. E. Church in a body and were treated to a beautiful and appropriate anniversary sermon by the Rev. C. H. Kirby, a member of the Germantown Lodge.

Rare larges are now being offered by Murphy the Jeweler in Hamilton Iron, Bronze, Porcelain and Wood Clocks. See his low prices on watches, especially on Howard Watches. Prices have never been so low.

Editor Bonington—The Standard, the leading Negro paper in the South, has taken up the cause of Editor C. C. Moore, and calls on all Negroes in Kentucky to sign a petition for pardon, which is to be sent to President McKinley.

A special from Frankfort says Thomas H. Platter of this city has been frequently spoken of as a candidate for the nomination for Attorney General, but as Dr. J. M. Frazer of this county has already announced for Commissioner of Agriculture, he will probably say out of the race.

Another Maysville man is coming to the front. Recently Architect Bernard Wisnall, formerly of this city, submitted plans for a new Courthouse in Covington, which were accepted by Council. The building is to be three stories high, of buff or red pressed brick with stone trimmings, and is to cost $3,000.

Cattle Wanted.
Fifty head of Cattle, long and short yearlings. Nothing but good stock will do.

TOTAL COST OF OPERA-HOUSE.

What the Building Committee Has Paid Out in the Erection of the Handsome Temple.

BEST MATERIAL AT LOWEST POSSIBLE COST.

Since the burning of the old building and during the construction of the new the public has shown its deepest interest in the affairs connected with the Washington Opera-house, and that the people might know under what obligations the Building Committee has been placed the Ledger presents below the total cost of the new Temple which best material at lowest possible cost.

It will be gratifying to learn that, since the public has had an opportunity to inspect the building and that it has received the hearty endorsement of all, the total cost of the new house is not as much as the old by several thousands of dollars, that of the former being about $25,000, while the latter reached nearly $25,000.

It was the aim of those having the work in charge to secure as cheap material as possible, not "cheap" in the ordinary acceptance of the word, but that the very best needed in such an undertaking might be purchased at the lowest possible cost.

Of the total amount of money which has been paid out some $4,000 was secured by popular subscription, the rest being raised by issuing bonds and by personal obligations. Here are the items:

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

Privately (at Times).
In January of last year, it will be remembered, the old Washington Opera-house at Maysville, erected long years before, was totally destroyed by fire on a Sunday morning.

Building and a public institution, the pride of that little city across the winter-locked divide, and the fruits of the efforts of their noble Fire Company, whose erst loss for many dark days following the calamity seemed darker still and almost irreparable.

Last Thursday night, all gloom and despair in the breasts of those fire-ladles since that memorable morning was swept aside as with a new broom when the handsome new Opera-house and Fire Department, bearing the same name as the old one, erected last fall and completed this winter, was dedicated to the public's future joy and pleasure and beset with elaborate ceremonies and charming incidents.

The program, which was divided into three parts—the first, to the dedication of the Temple; the second and third for the public dedication, a series of very beautiful tableaux, and the conclusion, a Corps Drill, performed by men from that crack "auxiliary" company of St. John No. 38—was all of home talent, as it should have been; and for pomp and glory, and for ability and thorough comprehension to a steady there was nothing lacking to insure the degree of perfection to which, as only Kentucky could best know how, the address in the dedication ceremonies were delivered by William H. Cox, Chairman of the Building Committee, who gave a brief but excellent address to the citizens of Maysville assembled there, commending them upon their interest in the work and their liberality in the premises, with kindred sentiments for their aid in the ultimate and complete obliteration from debt, and who gave the keys over into the keeping of the President of the Washington Fire Company, Editor Thomas A. Davis of Lexington fame. Brother Davis the President, in accepting the keys, addressed the Chairman in the warmest sincerity of heart and mind, for the part-taking in the work upon the part of all directly interested; and with that grace that marks his every utterance in print, he turned to the large audience with the audacity freedom: "And now, what must I say to the magnificent audience—this banquet of teamwork beauty; this assembly of brain and brawn, of northward wealth of our devoted city?" What else this fearless and able Editor and advocate of Maysville's best interests said upon this occasion, can be safely asserted as being well said and to the point. Police Judge A. A. Wadsworth responded to Mr. Davis on behalf of the city officials, and formally opened the stage of their elegant new Temple of Drama to the proud public.

The excellent program arranged for the audience immediately began with the tableaux series, and were doubtless as greatly appreciated by all as they were beautiful in conception and worthily executed by Maysville's fair sex. To fully picture the tableaux vivants without personal observation would be as difficult as were the introductions of the masterly movements of the Knights in their Drill to a "new recruit," which followed and concluded the entertainment.

It was surely a fitting finale to the first night in the new home of Apollo, which deserves to stand beyond the next generation and which today must seem to its beneficiaries as a companion in the old one, as a new silk tie to an old stock hat.

Your Boy or Girl

Will be better for having a watch. There will be fewer tardy marks and fewer broken appointments. They will learn the value of time, that life is made up of time, just moments of time, and those moments put to good use make life a success or failure. Teach them to be at school on time, to meet the train on time, in fact, do everything on time and thereby shorten the cares of life. PRETTY WEDDING.

The Bloom Nash Nuptials Celebrated Last Week at Collegeville.

The home of Mr. Samuel Nash was the scene of a very pretty wedding Friday 16th, when his youngest daughter, Miss Mary Maud, plighted her troth to Mr. Elmer C. Bloom, one of the prominent young schoolteachers of Lawrence county.

The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Elder T. P. Dugan.

The attendants were Mr. J. S. Nash and Miss Flora Pearis, and Mr. Wilson Pearis and Miss Mollie Bloom.

After the ceremony the guests partook of a most elegant supper, delightfully prepared, which consisted of all the delicacies of the season, together with all the necessary viands to a most enjoyable repast.

The happy couple left for the home of the groom the next morning, where an elegant reception was tendered them by his parents.

That their future may be a happy one is the wish of their many friends.

For frost bites, burns, indolent sores, eczema, skin disease, and especially Piles, the Witch Hazel Salve stands first and best. Look out for dishonest people who try to imitate and counterfeit it. It's their undoing and a good article. Worthless goods are not limited. Get Dr. Wirt's Witch Hazel Salve. Henry W. Ray, Adjoining Postoffice.

Hechinger & Co

Special 4 Days Sale.

Beginning Wednesday, closing Saturday, we will hold an Embroidery, Lace and White Goods Carnival.

Dainty Embroideries.

New and clever designs, neatly embroidered on fine Nainsook, with the careful taste the slower working of the hand machines alone can give. The average embroideries sold elsewhere are disappointing, they may be fairly attractive in design but a few washings change them into tatters. It isn't the washer's fault either. It is the fault of the embroidery maker, who has gone daft on the cheap idea. Such trash finds no entrance here. And that doesn't mean you'll pay too much for our embroideries—they are doubly cheap, the prices are low, the goods are low. Embroideries for lingerie—embroideries for women's dresses—embroideries for children's dresses. These as a hint of countless other bargains.

At 5c.—Good designs, strong worked figures for wear.

At 7c.—Handsome French Cambric Edgings, 2 to 3 1/2 inches wide.

At 10c.—Fine and Sheer Nainsook and Cambric Hamburgs, Insertions and Edgings to match.

At 15c.—Knicknacks in choice and exclusive patterns.

You'd suppose them worth as much again—so they are by other folks standard.

D. HUNT & SON.
